Reading Questions for Friday

Zollman

1. Why is analyzing the motivations of scientists important for understanding scientific rationality?
2. Why do scientists face a "public goods problem"? How does credit help with this?
3. What is a labor allocation problem? What effect does credit have on this problem?
4. Why does Zollman conclude that in most cases, credit does more good than harm?